Automated 'End to end' HR processes are a reason for many organizations to purchase new HR software. However, it appears that in practice this is not always feasible within the limits of Cloud HR software. myBrand wants to change this with HR Forms for SAP SuccessFactors.

Digitization and automation are important topics for every HR department. Automation in particular provides administrative relief for HR professionals, enabling them to focus more and more strategically on the development of employees and the organization.

However, with the myBrand products built for SAP SuccessFactors, much of the administrative work is a thing of the past. With this new product for SAP SuccessFactors, myBrand also wants to relieve the pressure on the HR department by combining processes and making them more compatible, so that processes can be accommodated end-to-end in the HR system.
